

DEDICATION

The life of this man pleads,
"Be ye followers of me,
Even as I am of Christ."

"For all things are for your sakes,
That the abundant grace might
Through the thanksgiving of many Rebound to the glory of God."

So is the desired result of his
Every student-teacher relationship.

A living, breathing, epistle,
"Known and read of all men,"
In his life we exemplified read his present and parting instruction.
"But sanctify the Lord God in your hearts:
And be ready always to give an answer
To every man that asketh you
A reason of the hope that is in you
With meekness and fear."

We have distressingly failed
To give honor where honor is due.
Sir, we are grateful.
