A LETTER FROM THE PRESIDENT!

Dear Trinity Students:

WE'VE HAD A TREMENDOUS YEAR!

My mind goes back to the exciting chapel services, challenging missionaries, inspiring musical groups, thought-provoking teachers, energetic students — and, best of all, the moving of the Holy Spirit throughout the campus.

Someone has said, "Life is not made of time — but of moments."

We've had a lot of special moments this year.

Which moment will you remember best?

What I like best about Trinity is the family feeling here. I'll be off somewhere conducting a crusade and find myself wishing I was back with you. That's why I'm always so excited to return.

I want to congratulate the 1987 graduates for their outstanding achievement. You've run a challenging race here, you've jumped the hurdles, you've made it to the finish line. Now you can receive the prize — a deeper faith in Jesus Christ and a greater desire to win lost souls for the Lord.

I ask you to always remember Trinity. Pray for us each day and support us. We want to continue with the finest teachers and the newest resources, and we need your help.

I also hope as you flip through the pages of this book, you'll be reminded of all the friends you've made here — and you'll pray for these present and future pastors, evangelists, missionaries, teachers and full-time Christian workers.

My wife Connie and I love you. You will always be a part of our lives — wherever you go.

Sincerely your friend in Christ,

Lowell Lundstrom
President

PRESIDENT LOWELL LUNDSTROM

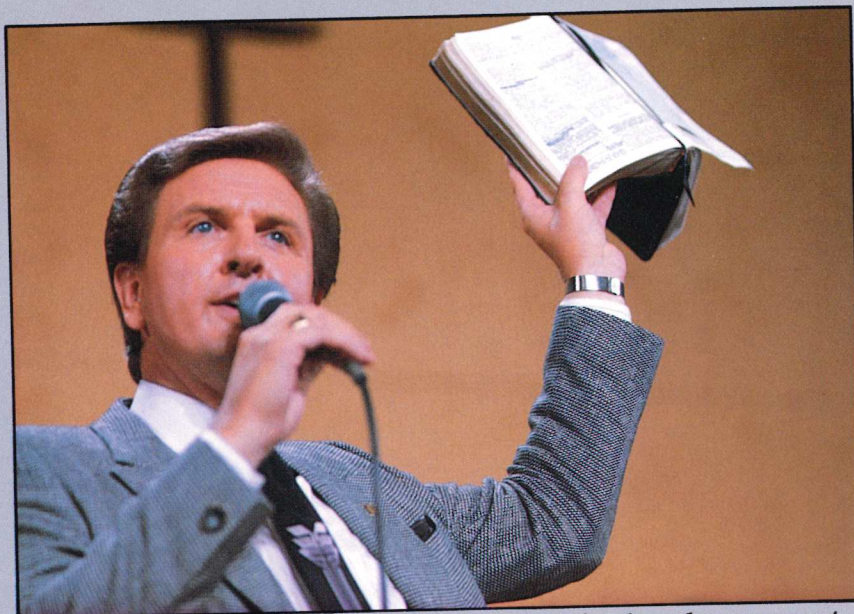

The Rev. Lowell Lundstrom became president of Trinity Bible College in the fall of 1983. Under his leadership, the enrollment has nearly doubled—from 289 students in 1983 to nearly 500 today.

President Lundstrom and his wife Connie are 1960 graduates of Trinity. Back then, the college was called The Lakewood Park Bible School and was located in Devils Lake, N.D.

Along with his work here, the president is a full-time evangelist. Every year in his nationwide crusades, an estimated 10,000 people come forward to dedicate their lives to Jesus Christ. The president also serves as executive director of Central Indian Bible College in Mobridge, South Dakota. He is an author, singer, songwriter and host of his own weekly television show—which reaches thousands with the Gospel. He and his wife Connie have four children: Londa, Lisa, L.J. and Lance.

Trinity students always enjoy hearing a Spirit-filled testimony from the president's wife, Connie Lundstrom.

President Lundstrom's powerful messages in chapel are a great inspiration to Trinity students.

The president's daughter, Londa Hentges, visited Trinity during Fall College Days. Londa is a singer, songwriter and musician — and always a welcome guest here.

EXECUTIVE VICE-PRESIDENT CARL MALZ

The Rev. Carl Malz became the executive vice-president of Trinity in the fall of 1983. He is also an instructor and chapel speaker. Before coming here, Executive Vice-President Malz spent 15 years in the pastoral ministry. He is the past president of Southern Asia Bible College, founder of the Middle East School of Theology and past vice-president of the International Correspondence Institute of Brussels, Belgium. He is also an author and has made several guest appearances on the national PTL network and The 700 Club.

STUDENT MINISTRIES...

DRESSING THE PART. In the summer of 1986, these Trinity students traveled to the Figi Islands to help spread the Gospel of Jesus Christ. Returning home, they looked as if they'd grown accustomed to the place. (l to r): Linda Zacharias, Penny Abrahamson, instructor Lavonne Larson, Lillie Wurst, Steve Slater and Matt Dulgar.

...REACHING OUT TO A LOST AND HUNGRY WORLD!

A CARING CARGO. More than 200 Trinity students and faculty members traveled to Grand Forks, North Dakota, in September to march in silence against an abortion clinic there.

FALL COLLEGE DAYS '86

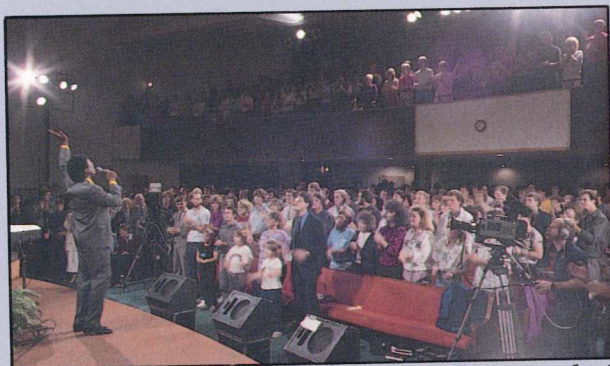

SING IT JESSE! World-renowned Gospel musician Jesse Dixon performed a live concert at Trinity on October 23, 1986 — all part of the annual College Days celebration.

Above: A NICE COMPLEMENT. Jesse's accompanist, Elfa Harris, is an excellent musician and singer. The two harmonized beautifully together.

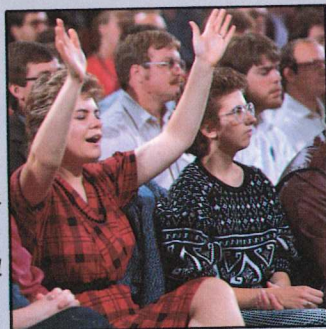

Below: JESUS IS LORD. Many of the young people who visited Trinity during College Days re-dedicated their lives to Jesus Christ at a special chapel service.

A FULL HOUSE. The campus chapel was packed with joyful worshippers as Jesse led in song.

A CHERISHED MOMENT. Trinity students loved it when the Lundstrom Singers and Jesse Dixon sang together in praise to the Lord.

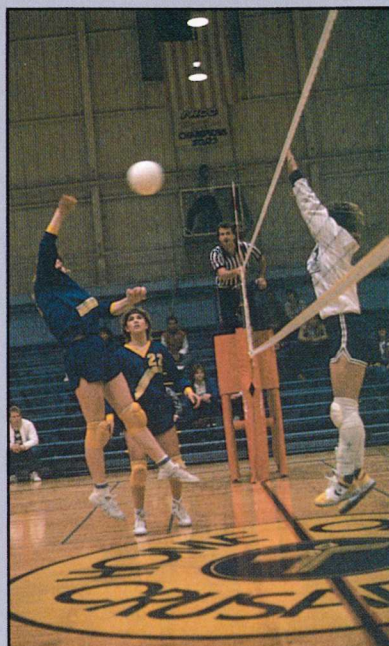

THE UPLIFTED HANDS. Robin Brown lifts her hands in praise to God at one of the exciting chapel services during College Days.

SPORTS...YEAR OF CHAMPIONS!

THE BEST BLOCKERS. Trinity's Kyle Peterson, #32, gets plenty of protection from his teammates as he gains extra yardage in this exciting home game against Huron College JV.

THE LONGEST YARD. Cross Country runner James Conklin heads in for the home stretch as Trinity students cheer him to victory.

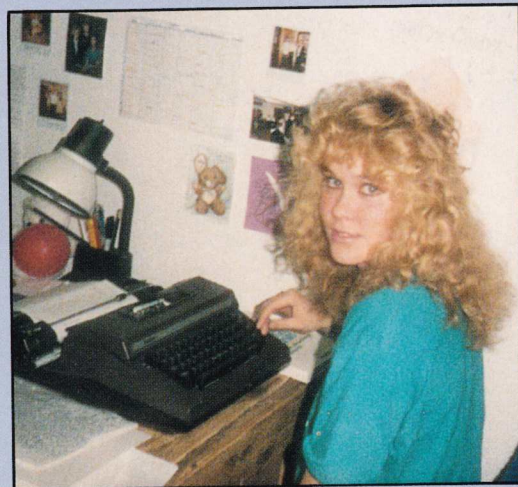

TRINITY: REMEMBERING THE GOOD TIMES...

WE'RE HERE ANGIE! Sometimes "Messenger" yearbook photographers did their jobs too well — Angie Thompson will vouch for that.

THE MIDNIGHT BLUES. Snuggled quietly in her dorm room, Nola Weber manages a smile in the late night hours when a term paper is due.

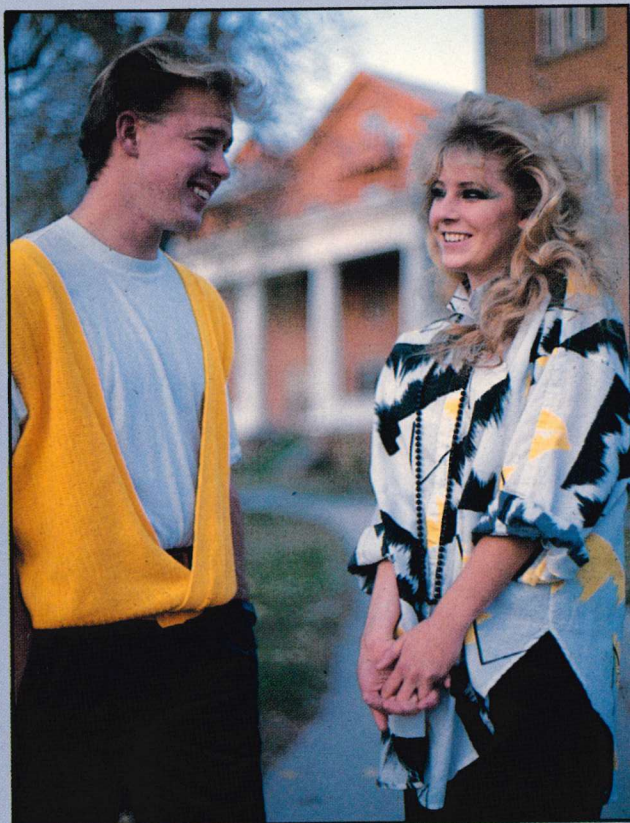

A LUNCH DATE. Brian Worthing and Wendi Meinholz offer a word of thanks to God before eating a light lunch between classes.

...AND THE GOOD FRIENDS!

AN EVENING STROLL. Joey Walls and Erin O'Brien enjoy a quiet walk across campus in the warm fall air.

COLLEGE LIFE!

*College life is lots of fun,
I really do enjoy it.
But all the tests and term papers
Can pretty near destroy it.*

*We learn at college, sure we do,
From roommates, friends and preachers.
But, oh, the pains and fears brought on
By overzealous teachers.*

*We love the praise in chapel,
The food up here is great.
But woe upon the student
Who does his paper late.*

*We love this college, Trinity,
The staff's by far the best.
The teachers have our full respect.
Our brains, though, need a rest.*

ALL WASHED UP. Karen Clapp (left) and sister Kathy have their hands full trying to take care of the laundry and keep up with their social life.

DEDICATION — STEVE TVEDT

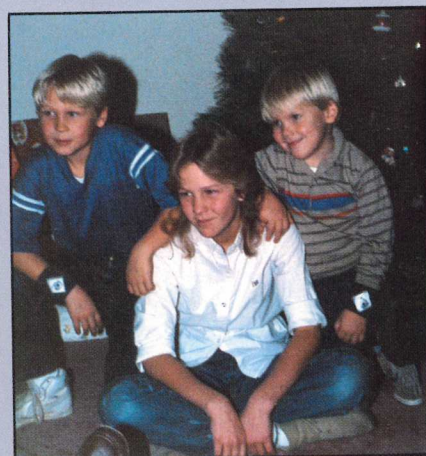

Steve and wife Gwen enjoy a moment together during the faculty and staff Christmas party in December.

Trinity students know that when Dean Tvedt talks, they'd better listen!

After all his hard work and long hours, the dean needs to get plenty of sleep — even if it is in the campus chapel.

The Tvedt's three children: Adam, Shanda and Lukas.

"He's been a big influence on us. He's been our class adviser for three years, and he's really cool," says Trinity's senior class.

And that's why they are dedicating the 1987 "Messenger" to Steve Tvedt, Trinity's Dean of Students.

The seniors call him a close friend, a mentor. "He gets down on our level. He can relate to us," they say. "It's so easy to get along with him."

They recognize him for his great sense of humor and for the excellent job he does as dean, a position he began in 1982.

Steve graduated from Trinity in 1980 with a B.A. in Bible/Ministerial. He then earned a Master of Divinity in Theology and Bible from the Assemblies of God Theological Seminary in Springfield, Missouri.

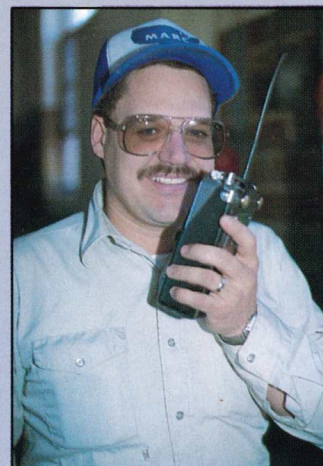

APPRECIATION — STEVE AND DAWN WAGLER

Dawn takes a break from teaching to spend time with her youngest daughter, Tracy.

Steve and Dawn enjoy a relaxing moment at their home in Ellendale.

Steve is always just a phone call away when help is needed somewhere on campus.

The Wagler's four children: LaVerne, Tammy, Tracy and Tara.

The Waglers on their wedding day, Sept. 1, 1973.

One of Trinity's most warmhearted couples — Steve and Dawn Wagler — are truly appreciated by this year's senior class.

The seniors call Steve, Trinity's superintendent of buildings and grounds, a "patient man and a hard worker. It's a miracle the job he does here," they say, "meeting so many requests and always trying to make everyone happy."

The class also admires his wife Dawn for the cheerfulness she exudes, despite her busy schedule. "She keeps a family together and also teaches Art for Elementary Teachers at the college. That's a lot of responsibility," the seniors say, "and she handles it so well.

"No matter where you see her," they add, "she's always smiling — and that encourages a lot of people."

IN MEMORIAM—WARREN DAHLSTROM

Trinity Bible College and the class of '87 were saddened by the loss of Warren Dahlstrom.

Dahlstrom, 44, died in June 1986 of an apparent heart attack, according to newspaper sources.

After completing one year of studies at Trinity, he began a new job at a Christian radio station in Columbus, Ohio. It was there that he died suddenly.

Before coming to Trinity, Dahlstrom spent four years as a reporter and weatherman at KMSP-TV in St. Paul, Minnesota.

He left the station in 1983 and later worked for a radio station in Las Vegas and a TV station in Houston.

Dahlstrom was born in St. Paul. He attended Northwestern College there, then the Brown Institute in Minneapolis for his broadcast training.

CHAPEL GUESTS...

Every semester at Trinity, some of the greatest Christian leaders of our day visit the campus chapel to preach God's holy Word. Students have been strengthened and enriched by the mighty testimonies and anointed messages of these dynamic speakers. The past year's guest list includes: Toby and Barb Waldowski, Rev. James Moulder, Evangelist Penny Lea, author Betty Malz, Rev. Dan Miller, Rev. Brad Fitzloff, Pam Schram, Evangelist Ken Krivolavek, Rev. David Dunah, Rev. Yesudian Jeyaraj, Rev. Mel Erickson, Rev. Fred Jeob, Rev. Anthony Rhodes, Rev. Lamar Headley, Gary and Lucy Thrasher, Evangelist Don Brankel, Paul Border, Rev.

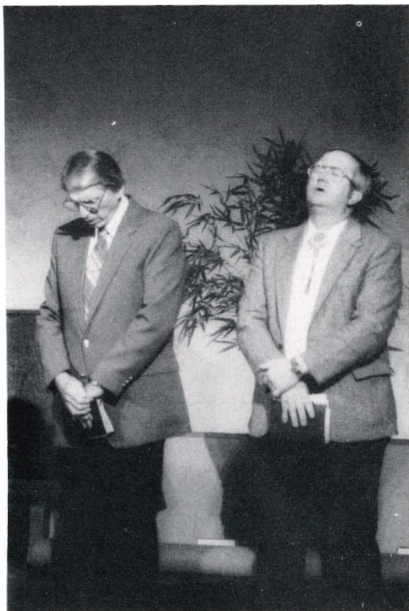

Duane Henders, Power Team, Rev. Charles and Mary Clauser, Rev. Jeff Frankauser, Rev. Robert Maddox, Rev. Gorden Jensen, Rev. Sam Farina, Rev. Fred Leader, and evangelist Bernhard Johnson.

PRAYER BANDS

Every Thursday, Trinity students and faculty gather in one of six classrooms—each representing a different region of the world—and band together in prayer for that area. The groups also take offerings to help support missionaries in these areas.

PRAYER BAND LEADERS/ADVISERS

Africa George & Sherry Rennau/Esther Zink

Melissa Marvil prays silently for missionaries around the world.

Mrs. Heuser shows members of the South America prayer band slides of the country of Guyana, where she and her husband visited years ago.

Steve Dahl joins in prayer with members of the North America prayer band.

FALL COLLEGE DAYS '86

More than 200 prospective students, pastors and their wives, and other guests visited Trinity during College Days '86, October 23 and 24.

The group toured the campus, attended chapel services and enjoyed many social activities.

President Lundstrom led services both days in the campus chapel, and the Lundstrom Singers ministered in song.

The special guest was Jesse Dixon, an internationally-known Gospel singer, who performed a live concert in the chapel.

A Pastors' and Wives' Seminar was also held, with speakers including President Lundstrom and wife Connie, Trinity Executive Vice-President Carl Malz and wife Betty, and campus pastor Darwin Heuser and wife Ona.

Jesse Dixon lifts his voice in praise during his live concert in the campus chapel.

President Lundstrom and Jesse Dixon share a few laughs during the concert.

Trinity students and invited guests lift their hands to God as the concert comes to a close. Many of the youths who visited the campus rededicated their lives to Christ during this service.

SPRING COLLEGE DAYS '87

Leon Patillo calls himself "a chosen vessel to carry encouragement through music." Trinity students will long remember this "encourager's" beautiful words.

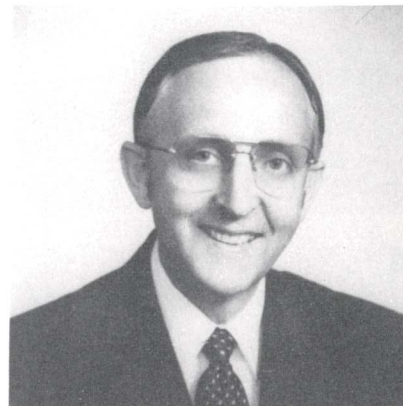

Members of the Power Ministries exercised a little muscle in getting their anointed messages across.

Spring College Days '87—April 2 & 3—was a great, Spirit-filled experience for hundreds of prospective students and pastors and their wives visiting the college.

The special guest was Dove Award-winner Leon Patillo, one of America's top Gospel singers.

Rev. Glen Cole and Dr. Harold Carter were guest speakers for the Pastors' and Wives' Seminar. Many pastors returned home with a renewed zeal to serve God and help win their communities for Christ.

President Lundstrom and wife Connie hosted the event. The Lundstrom Singers sang a number of their new songs during one of the event's exciting praise rallies.

Rev. Glen Cole (above) and Dr. Harold Carter (below) delivered powerful messages in the chapel making the Pastors' and Wives' Seminar one of Trinity's best ever!

FALL MISSIONARY CONVENTION

"Give the Winds a Mighty Voice"

A number of Trinity students felt the Lord's call to the mission field during the Fall Missionary Convention—Nov. 5, 6 and 7.

"Someday I'd like to go overseas and be a missionary teacher at a Bible school or college," said senior Jairo Leandro. "During the missions program here, I felt God stir that thought within me."

Students, faculty, staff and administrators pledged a record-breaking $54,076 at the convention to help expand the college's missionary support program. Trinity now contributes to 41 missionaries around the world every month, along with helping support the 'Revivaltime' radio broadcast.

Missionaries Bob Brenneman (left) and Dwain Jones were guest speakers at the convention and preached God's Word with a "Mighty Voice."

Jeff Nelson, Trinity's Student Ministries Director (at podium), leads students in prayer for missionaries at home and abroad.

Missionary Bob Brenneman, who is also a Trinity graduate, prays for a student with a special request.

SPRING MISSIONARY CONVENTION

"People Need the Lord"

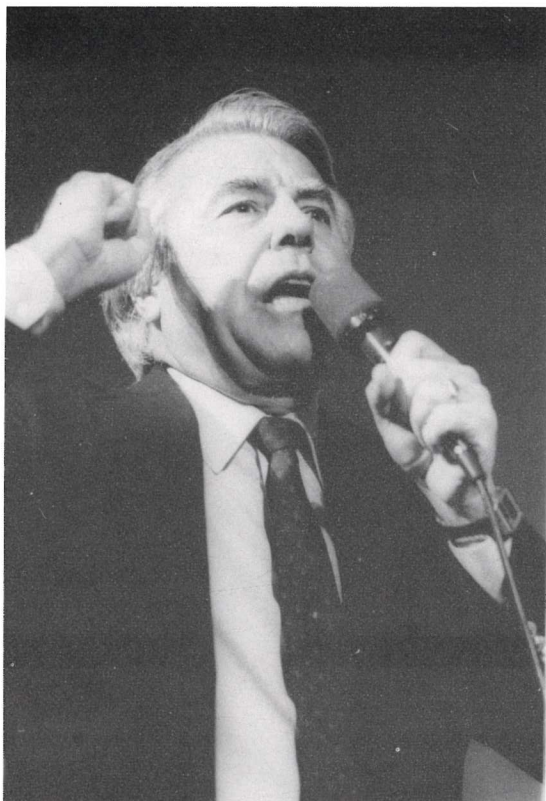

Evangelist Bernhard Johnson was the special guest at Trinity's Spring Missionary Convention, Feb. 2-6.

Rev. Johnson conducts mass crusades all over the world, including his native country, Brazil. A powerful anointing of the Holy Spirit fell upon the Trinity family as he preached.

Students donned costumes and carried flags representing six mission fields worldwide—Africa, Asia, Europe, Islands of the Sea, North America and South America.

Evangelist Bernhard Johnson

Many Trinity students were at the altar, seeking the Lord and the call He has for their life.

TRINITY CAMPUS CHURCH

"It's a great opportunity for me to minister to students who are preparing for future ministry—whether in the pulpit or any profession," says Rev. Darwin Heuser, pastor of Trinity Campus Church.

For many Trinity students, Pastor Heuser is like a "father away from home," and the Trinity Campus Church like a "home church away from home."

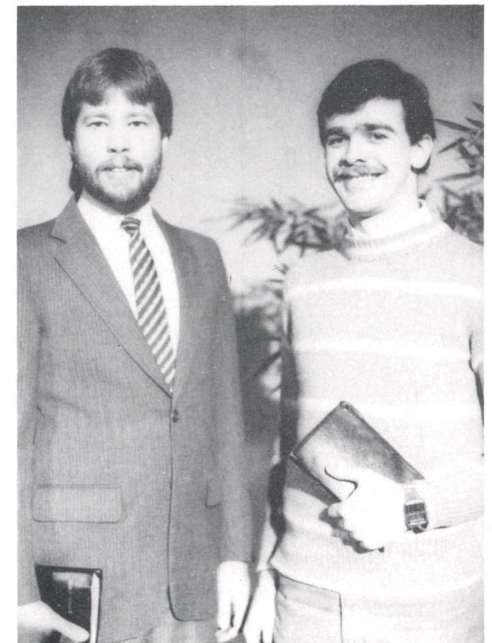

Pastor Heuser and his wife Ona have ministered the Gospel in the United States and around the world for the past 44 years. Their constant and loving message to students is to live a life "dedicated to prayer."

Grades four/five/six Mark Peters and Beth & Lyn Domsten

Teens Scott Schroeder, Renee Godding

Every semester, Trinity instructors Dave and Esther Zink teach "Marriage Enrichment," one of the two adult Sunday School classes offered at Trinity Campus Church.

Trinity instructor Sam Brelo reads a verse from the Book of Genesis in Mrs. Heuser's adult Sunday School class.

Many Trinity students are challenged by the thought-provoking Sunday School classes offered on campus.

CHILDREN'S CHURCH

The children of Trinity students are well taken care of by other Trinity students interested in learning about this "youthful" church ministry.

Children's Church leader Scott Dunning says it's good experience for future pastors and pastors' wives. "Many of us will be in our own church someday and we may need to start up a children's church or nursery program. Here," he says, "you learn things like how to organize games, select music and get on the youngsters level to talk about the Bible."

The students put on puppet shows for the kids, give Bible quizzes, lead prayer sessions and direct the children in an annual Christmas program.

Getting the children organized for their annual Christmas music presentation is never easy, as leader Mary Dunning can attest.

TRINITY CHURCH YOUTH—SILAS MIDNIGHT PLAYERS

Brad Kingsriter (left) portrays Mary's husband Joseph in the play. Here, he asks innkeeper Lisa Stenkivist for a room at the inn.

Every Christmas, the Trinity Campus Church youth (grades 7 through 12)—better known as the Silas Midnight Players—put on a play in the chapel. The title of this year's production was, "Bethlehem...Everybody's Home Town."

The play is the story of an innkeeper who was saving a room at the inn for the Messiah, but got so preoccupied with money and the things of this world, that she didn't recognize when His family finally came.

The play was directed by Jeff Nelson, Youth Pastor of Trinity Campus Church.

Jeff Nelson, Trinity Campus Church Youth Pastor and director of the play, sings a solo entitled, "Thou Didst Leave Thy Throne."

The play's choir, dressed in shepherd's clothing, includes (l to r): Brady Shuert, Blane Conklin, Dale Zink, Jill Tatum, Heather Christenson, Amy Shuert and Shanda Tvedt.

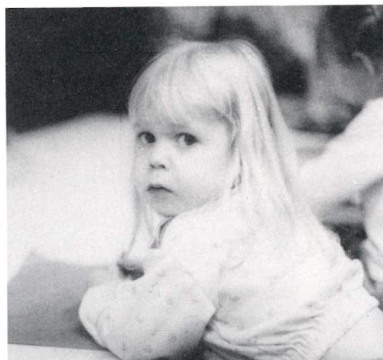

MISSIONETTES

"Teaching the children in Missionettes has really enhanced my studies in Elementary Education at Trinity. I like being one-on-one with the girls and helping them learn the little lessons about life—lessons they might not get anywhere else. Being here has strengthened my walk in the Lord. It gets me excited to share Jesus with young people eager to learn and grow."

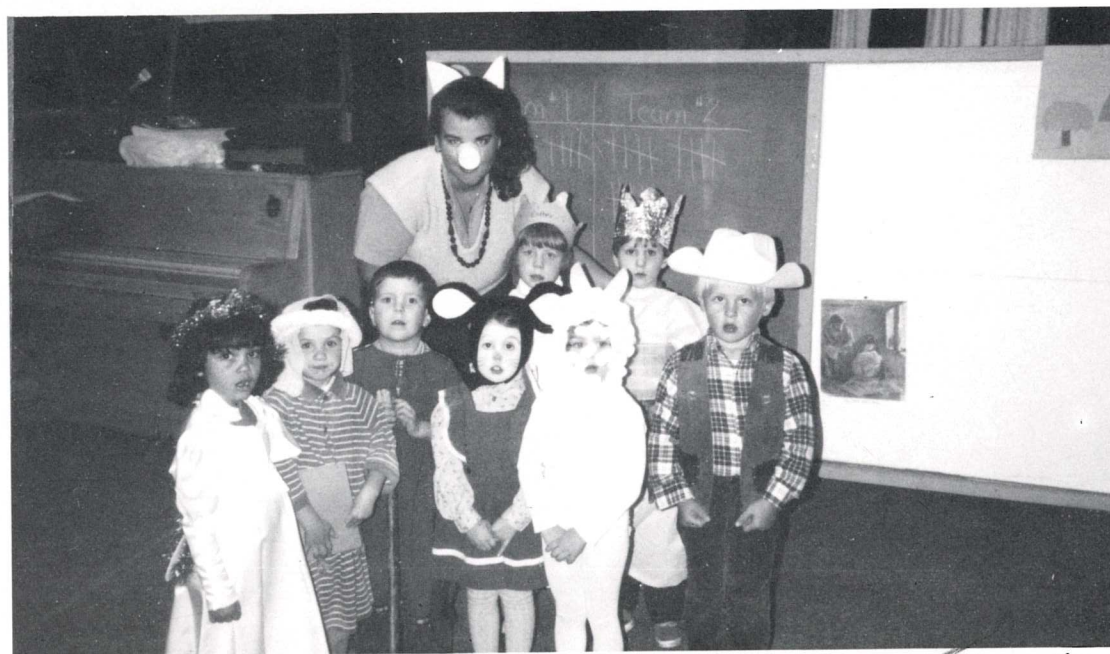

Kathy Anderson
Senior
Starbuck, MN

Kathy Anderson reads a story from the Bible to Missionette Jessica Van Klompenburg.

Little Missy Wagler may not like the camera, but she always enjoys being a "Rainbow" on Wednesday nights.

ROYAL RANGERS

"Working with the Royal Rangers has been a real challenge to me. I'm just a big brother helping develop a young boy into a potential layman, deacon or pastor. I want to enter law enforcement when I leave Trinity, and Royal Rangers has taught me a lot about discipline, order and conduct. I've learned how to deal with people and situations—and most of all—how to serve God in work and in life!"

Senior Commander and Trinity student Sam Perez has a "father-son" talk with Royal Ranger Jacob Shadis.

Samuel Agee enjoys reading the Bible with the rest of the Buckaroos.

Ben Eib and Adam Tvedt have a good laugh before the Royal Rangers get down to business.

Jesse Pettyjohn and his fellow Pioneers start the night off with a prayer of thanks to God.

INSTRUMENTS OF PRAISE & CHAPEL CHOIR

Harvey Macklin and Kendra Shryer praise God with a fanfare during a worship service in the chapel.

THE CHAPEL CHOIR:

The Chapel Choir is Trinity's choral ensemble. The group performs in the campus chapel and in area churches. The ensemble sings a variety of sacred literature, both accompanied and acapella. Choir director is Annette Willis.

INSTRUMENTS OF PRAISE:

The Instruments of Praise is Trinity's instrumental ensemble. These musicians perform year-round at nearly every chapel service on campus and in area churches. The same group transforms into the college's Pep Band during football and basketball games. The ensemble was also the orchestra in April for the play, "The Music Man," performed here as part of Trinity's Dakota Concert series. The group's director is Paul Hamelink.

THE INDIAN MINISTRY MAKES NEWS IN HEAVEN!

As the Indian Ministry Team looks back on Sunday, Nov. 23, 1986, they are grateful for the moving of the Holy Spirit that took place on an Indian Reservation in Sisseton, S.D. Indian Ministry leader Joe Shelton remembers one Indian man who received Jesus as his Savior—Joe reassured him that his re-birth would not be in the local newspaper the next morning, but that it was great news among the angels in heaven.

Tears ran down many faces as white men and red men experienced their common brotherhood in Christ.

Linae Rice and Steve Howard recall the beautiful Indian children who were shy at first, but who slowly reached out toward their Trinity guests and received them with warmth.

Dennis and Mary Jordan said, "The reactions of the Indian congregation as we sang about love and salvation were wonderful. Even the pastor's faith was strengthened by the power of the Holy Spirit."

Abe Chopper also recalls visiting the jail and hospital: "I remember one man who listened so intently to the message of deliverance through Jesus and another cupped his ears to hear better when we began to sing. It was a great day for everyone!"

—By Shelley Ford

CSSA: JERICO 86 & 87...

This fall, more than 200 Trinity students, faculty and administrators drove to Grand Forks, North Dakota, to participate in Jericho '86—a silent march to ban abortion in the state of North Dakota.

The demonstration was led by evangelist Penny Lea, whose goal is to stop abortion not only in this state, but throughout the nation.

"The significant thing that hit me there," says senior Bruce Kaufman, "was the reverence the marchers had for God and the intensity they had against abortion." Kaufman is the president of Trinity's Christian Students for Social Action (CSSA) chapter, which organized the trip.

Altogether, about 5,000 people gathered in the town for the rally. "There were Catholic priests and nuns and Methodist, Baptist and Assembly of God members present," Kaufman says. "We were all together, singing hymns and praising God. No one was holding up the denominational flags, but we were coming out as one to help end this great atrocity."

"I was delighted to see that so many Trinity students made the commitment and took the time—some at their own expense—to be involved," says instructor Amy Strang, who also participated in the march.

"I certainly think we should speak out—the silent majority has continued too long."

Evangelist Penny Lea leads the Jericho '86 march in Grand Forks, North Dakota, and says she wants to see North Dakota become the first state in the nation to abolish abortion.

The Christian Students for Social Action (CSSA) members include: (l to r): Bruce Kaufman (president), Lynn Mason (secretary) and James Meredith (vice-president).

...SILENT PROTESTS TO SAVE THE UNBORN

Trinity students Jennifer Moffat and Paula Warne have their signs in hand as the march through Grand Forks gets underway.

Joining the crowd in prayer for unborn babies during the Grand Forks rally are Trinity students Darrel Johnson and Andrea Thompson.

Trinity instructors Dr. Edward Strang and wife Amy were two of the many Trinity faculty members who participated in the September 1986 march.

Evangelist Penny Lea leads the Jericho '87 march in Jamestown, North Dakota.

(LEFT): Jericho '87 marchers in Jamestown, North Dakota, faced much colder weather than the marchers in September, but that didn't stop Trinity students like Alan Pine and hundreds of others who came to pray for the unborn babies.

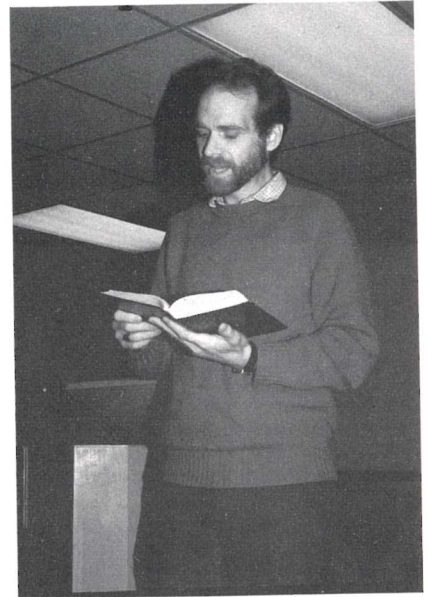

NURSING HOME MINISTRY

Every week, Trinity students in the Nursing Home Ministry visit the elderly in nursing homes throughout Ellendale, N.D. and Aberdeen, S.D. For many older people, the warm hand and loving smile of our students is the only "family" they have. But the most important thing the students share is the Good News of Jesus Christ and His plan of salvation, which is open to people of all ages.

ADOPT—A—GRANDPARENT

"Adopt-A-Grandparent" is a new ministry at Trinity. Gwen Tatum, activities director at the Ellendale Nursing Center and wife of Trinity coach Bob Tatum, launched the idea. Students who volunteer are assigned a "grandmother" or "grandfather" at an area nursing home and are asked to visit once a week. "This ministry isn't just one-sided," says senior Janna Rae Padgett. "You love them and they love you back. They take you in and make you feel special. They can brighten your day, just as we brighten theirs!"

WOMEN'S CHRISTIAN FELLOWSHIP

Every Thursday in the Green Room of Davidson Hall, the Women's Christian Fellowship meets to share testimonies, read the Word of God, enjoy a snack and get better acquainted. Most of the members are wives of faculty members and students. WCF also helps in a variety of other areas, including managing the Blessing Basement (a discount store at Trinity), conducting prayer chains and supporting two missionaries and a home for handicapped children.

Every month, WCF hosts a special woman speaker, who shares her testimony and other personal things about her life. January's guest was Naomi Brelo, wife of Trinity instructor Sam Brelo.

FAMILY FELLOWSHIP/F.O.C.A.S.

FAMILY FELLOWSHIP

Family Fellowship is a social organization for married couples on campus. One of the main annual events it sponsors is a Progressive Dinner in November. This year, the dinner began at the home of Steve Tvedt, Dean of Students, and ended up at the home of executive vice-president Carl Malz and wife Betty. Family Fellowship also sponsored a Valentine's Day Ball on February 13, a snack shop get-together, a bowling party and the annual dinner auction. At the auction, members buy and sell dinners. A buyer then visits the home of the couple who sold a meal and together they enjoy a delicious dinner and fellowship.

Trinity instructors Dale and Charlotte Hvistendahl were just one of the nearly 50 couples who enjoyed snacking their way through a "filling" Progressive Dinner.

F.O.C.A.S.

The Fellowship of Christian Adult Singles, or F.O.C.A.S., provides an excellent opportunity for single Christians on campus to get to know each other. "F.O.C.A.S. has opened up a lot of doors for me," says senior Gloria Shryer. "I never thought I could relate to people my age, but this group has changed all of that. I've made friends and have grown to feel comfortable around other people." Shryer adds that F.O.C.A.S. is also a ministry: "All the members share any problems they have, and then we pray together, asking God to meet our needs!"

NEW LIFE WEEKENDS/CHI ALPHA

NEW LIFE WEEKENDS

New Life Weekends ministry team travels year-round to churches throughout the Mid-West, visiting various youth groups. The goal is to put "new life" into the youth group. "Many young people only enjoy praising the Lord at a retreat or Bible camp," says Darrel Johnson, group coordinator. "We want to show them they can worship God on their own everyday and feel His peace and joy. This ministry," he adds, "has given me a heart for young people. I never realized I could work with youth in such a special way. All potential youth pastors should be required to attend a New Life Weekend."

The New Life Ministry team includes: Row one (l to r): Sheila Woodhull, Mary Bok (assistant coordinator), Janice Hansen and Angie Olson. Row two (l to r): Dennis Daywitt, Rochelle Dugger (assistant coordinator), Cheryl Hanson, Chris Brewer and Warren Gallagher. Row three (l to r): Darrel Johnson (coordinator), Tami Spurbeck, Deena Heath, Nick Bale and Tony Tahrán.

CHI ALPHA

The Chi Alpha ministry team visits with hundreds of students every semester at area-wide secular colleges, spreading the Gospel. "It's a unique opportunity for Trinity students to share with other college students—their peers," says group leader John Marstaeller,

"College age people are an important group to reach," he adds. "They are the next generation of decision makers, the next doctors, lawyers, teachers and businessmen. Sometimes," he says, "when we go to a college, we won't get to meet with every student, so we make an effort to see the student body president or the Christian leaders on campus. If we can reach them, we have a greater chance of also reaching the many lives they influence."

STREET WITNESSING

Witnessing is a way of life for us. It's our way of expressing gratitude to Jesus for saving us from an eternity in hell. It also is the way we express the love God has given us for lost souls.

The Lord commissions His followers in Mark 16:15, "Go ye into all the world, and preach the gospel to every creature." That means street witnessing is also an act of obedience.

So many people are looking for peace, for a reason to live. Some use drugs just to get by; others use alcohol. We Christians have what they are looking for, but people are not going to come to us. We must go to them, as Paul says in Romans 10:14, "...and how shall they hear without a preacher?"

People in the world invest their money in stocks to get rich. We've invested our lives in souls, knowing that our reward is in heaven!"

—By Rick & Penny Langenback

PRISON MINISTRY

"It's a beautiful thing to share Christ to people behind bars," says Prison Ministry team member Steve Howard. Once a month, the team travels to jails and federal institutions throughout North Dakota and South Dakota. "We want the prisoners to know that despite their crimes," Howard says, "Jesus still loves them. We encourage them, and find a number of men open to God's Word. Telling them about the Lord has made me a stronger soul-winner," he adds. "I have a new boldness that will make me better in my own ministry someday."

MISSIONS CLUB/ACTS 29

MISSIONS CLUB

The goal of Missions Club is to make Trinity students aware of the needs of missionaries around the world. The club invites missionaries to come and speak on campus, and presents exciting films portraying stories of missionary life. "Most of the students who join Missions Club," says adviser Jeff Nelson, "feel a call to the mission field. This organization reinforces that call and moves them in the right direction."

ACTS 29

Members of the Acts 29 ministry team visit patients at state mental hospitals and share music and God's Word with them. "It's a great 'on-the-job' ministerial experience for Trinity students," says freshman Nola Weber. "I've learned the value of being patient with people. I've learned how to be a good listener and how to stay positive no matter what the circumstances are. Jesus loves the mentally ill," she adds, "and His love through us can make a big difference in their lives."

MOVIN' IN!

Angela Henning (left) and roommate Danette Shea get ready to decorate their dorm room with a touch of nature.

The dorms opened for freshmen on a beautiful sunny day, August 23, 1986. The students arrived in cars packed with college-life necessities—bicycles, ironing boards, plants and pillows, to name a few.

Tiarnan Coval (front) and Vincent Hart have all the muscle they need to get this stereo into their new dorm room.

Saying good-bye to mom isn't always easy, as freshman Dot Bannert discovered.

AN ELLENDALE, NORTH DAKOTA GREETING!

The mayor and business community of Ellendale, North Dakota—home of Trinity Bible College—welcomed the Trinity family to another brand new year. They treated Trinity students, faculty, staff and administrators to delicious ice cream cones on a hot summer day.

President Lundstrom greets Ellendale Mayor Ron Kosel, who hosted this special day.

A TRINITY WELCOME PARTY!

Trinity's new freshmen enjoyed this outdoor "welcome to the campus" party! Plenty of food, soft drinks and laughter made this day a special one. For faculty, it was the perfect time to meet the students and get better acquainted with them.

One of the highlights of this first student get-together was "getting" to the food. Can you tell these guys are really enjoying the hot dogs and chili? (l to r): Roger Davis, Galen Rasmussen and Dennis Wagoner.

SIGNIN' UP!

Registration is always a challenging time for Trinity students. Nobody likes the long, long lines—but most agree the wait is worth it when you finally get the classes you want!

Registration can be a lot easier when you've got a friend to help you! (l to r): Steve Slater, Tanya Colborn and Randy Bohlender.

ACADEMIC EXCELLENCE IS...

The past year, students were challenged by the excellent and well-rounded academic programs offered at Trinity.

Students can earn the following degrees:

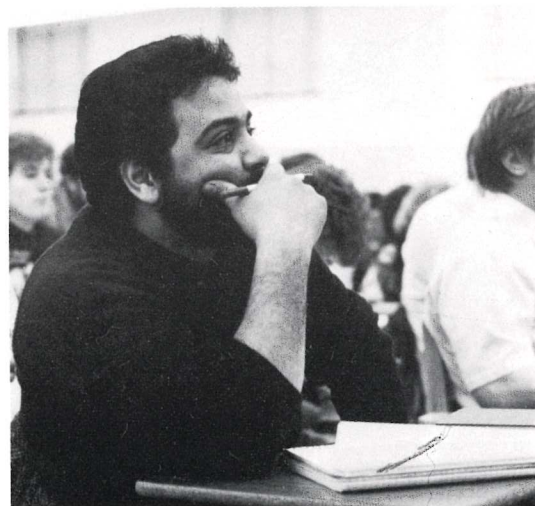

- † B.A. in Biblical Studies/Ministerial
- † B.A. in Biblical Studies/Business Education
- † B.A. in Biblical Studies/Elementary Education
- † B.A. in Biblical Studies/Christian Education
- † B.A. in Biblical Studies/Missions
- † B.A. in Biblical Studies/Music
- † B.A. in Biblical Studies/Human Relations
- † A.A. in Biblical Studies/Business Management
- † A.A. in Biblical Studies/Office Administration
- † Three-Year Bible Diploma
- † One-Year Bible Certificate

Instructor LeRoy Kirschenmann (left) helps Deena Heath come up with the answer she's looking for in Accounting class.

Marcos Quinones listens intently to the lecture in "Marriage and Family."

...A TRINITY TRADEMARK!

Students enjoy getting to know President Lundstrom who brings 30 years of evangelistic experience to Trinity. Throughout the year, the president leads numerous chapel services. His Spirit-filled teachings are a blessing to the students, faculty and staff. (With President Lundstrom is Jeff Kapelle.)

Trinity's Graham Library provides excellent resources for students. The library has 65,000 bound volumes and 3,000 original Bible and Theology bound volumes. It is also linked to a computer system, which gives students access to more than 12 million books and periodicals from libraries around the world. Above, Marah Sigafos and Loren Sandoz enjoy a moment of quiet study in the library.

At Trinity, every class begins with students like Clem DeMatto joining together in songs and prayer.

MUSIC MINOR IS A MAJOR PLUS!

Trinity's Music Minor, combined with a Biblical Studies Major, prepares students for full-time music ministry in a church. The minor also provides an excellent basis for those who plan to further their music studies elsewhere.

The Music Minor curriculum includes Music Education courses such as "Conducting" and "Introduction to Composition." Private and group instruction is available in piano and voice.

Students also can earn credits in Chapel Choir and/or Instruments of Praise.

Trinity Bible College joined hands with the Ellendale, North Dakota community and created "Dakota Concerts," a series of five concerts and a musical production, "The Music Man"—all performed throughout the past year on campus. Any student could audition for a singing part or the chance to play an instrument. Above, Trinity Music Director Paul Hamelink (left) directs the performance "Gloria" by Vivaldi and "Christmas Oratorio" by Saint Saens, on December 6, 1986. Soloists include Trinity music instructor Annette Willis (center) and junior Melissa Marvil.

STUDENTS PREPARE FOR MINISTRY LIFE!

Nathan Johnson was one of a number of Trinity students who had the opportunity to preach before the entire student body at a regular chapel service.

Trinity has an outstanding faculty. Professor Norm Shuert is a Biblical scholar and teaches the following courses: New Testament Survey, Greek I and II, Marriage & Family, Systematic Theology I, Introduction to Philosophy and Computer Lab.

Trinity Bible College prepares students to become pastors, pastors' wives, evangelists and missionaries, to name a few!

"Students who choose Trinity," says president Lowell Lundstrom, "are challenged to give their very best for God!

"They also are invited," he adds, "to take part in the Lord's great commission: 'Goye into all the world, and preach the Gospel to every creature (Mark 16:15).' "

Trinity is also training students, like Sonia Maunu, for careers in business. Introduction to Computers is just one of the courses offered with the new Associate in Arts Degree in Business Management.

FOOTBALL TEAM

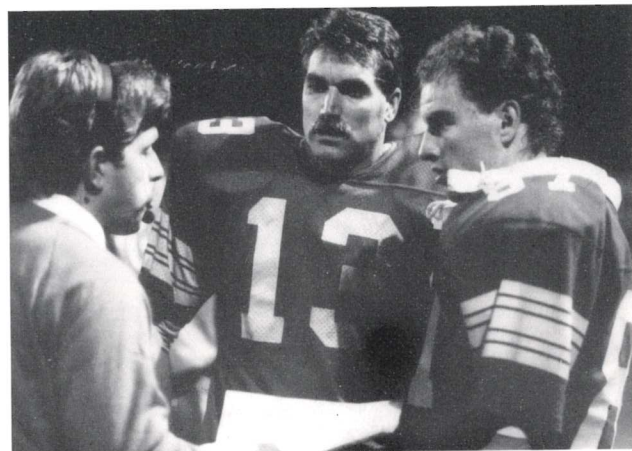

"It was a great feeling to win our first game 26-0 against St. Paul Bible College," says coach Bob Tatum. "In the past two years," he adds, "we've played St.

Paul three times and lost each time, so I know our team is progressing. But win or lose, we play every game for the Lord. The closer my athletes conform to the image of Christ, the more powerful witnesses they become—on and off the field," he says. "And that's the real victory."

Coach Bob Tatum knows how to make the tough decisions on the sidelines when the clock is running out.

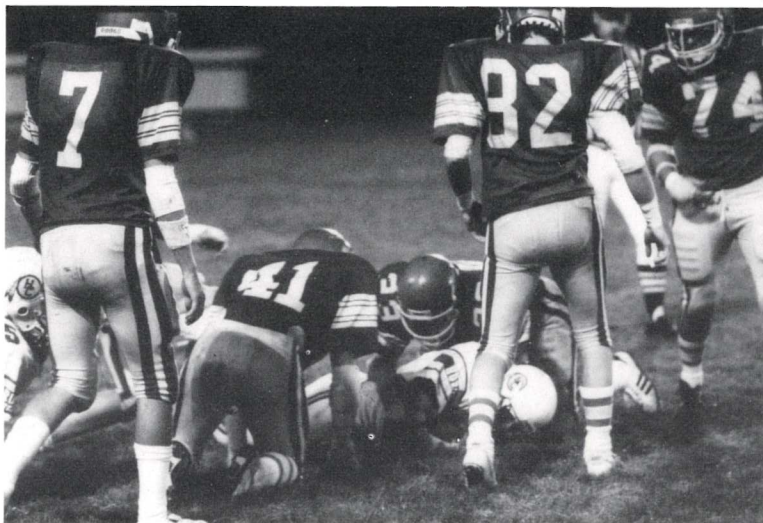

It's time out and coach Timothy Kath (left) discusses the next play with quarterback Roger Willis and offensive end Tim Rowlan.

"I've played sports all my life," says basketball player Tom Moody, "but I've never been close to my teammates as I am here at Trinity.

"There's a lot of camaraderie—everyone's quick with a smile and if you need a shoulder to cry on, someone is there.

"Coach Tatum is a tremendous man of God," Tom adds. "He wants his athletes not just to develop their skills and become good ballplayers—but to be men of God and grow in the Lord.

"I feel privileged to play on a team that has the right priorities!"

Mike Ritthaler carefully surveys the court, waiting for an open man to take the ball in this home game against the University of North Dakota-Bottineau.

Coach Keith Wagler has got a winning play in mind as he instructs his team.

"I adapt what I learn in the classroom to the basketball court," says player Kathy Lyon, a point guard. "When I'm under pressure during a game, I draw my strength from God's Word, and I remember that 'We are more than conquerors through Him that loved us.'"

"Being steadfast in the Lord helps you through any type of pressure situation."

"It's great to play a secular team and be a witness to them for the Lord. We'll help them up when they fall down or say something encouraging to them and through our own Christian lives—we plant a seed. And we believe God to give the increase!"

It won't be long now before Andrea Thompson gets control of the ball and heads down court to score a winner!

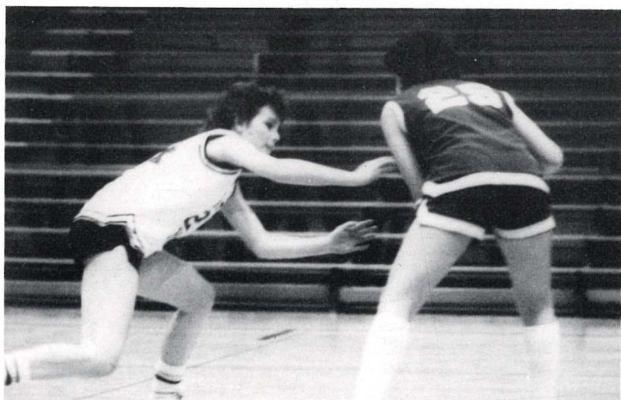

Amy Carter looks for some open arms to get the ball in action again.

Coach Chuck Knipe is on the edge of his seat as the Trinity Crusaders move the ball closer to the basket.

Michelle Hulsebus gives it all she's got to try and snatch the ball from the opposition—the University of North Dakota-Bottineau.

WOMEN'S VOLLEYBALL TEAM

For the first time in the history of Trinity Bible College, the Women's Volleyball Team won the national championship tournament of the National Bible College Athletic Association.

Eight colleges competed in the tournament, which was held Friday and Saturday, Oct. 17 and 18, 1986, in Rochester, Minnesota.

During the competition, Trinity won a total of 16 games and lost only two.

"It was a dream come true," says volleyball coach Jeff Nelson. "The girls played good, strong volleyball. There were a lot of tears and rejoicing after the final victory."

Trinity freshman Michelle Rondeau was named the tournament's Most Valuable Player and an All Tournament Team Member. Senior Kathy Anderson and sophomore Kathy Lyon received All American Team Awards.

"We owe all of our success," Nelson says, "to Trinity's 'Total Release' philosophy. The girls give all they have—on and off the court—to become more like Jesus. He's who we play for. He's all that matters."

The team's final record for the year was 19 wins, 11 losses and 1 tie.

It's time out for a little refreshment between games as coach Jeff Nelson discusses a new strategy.

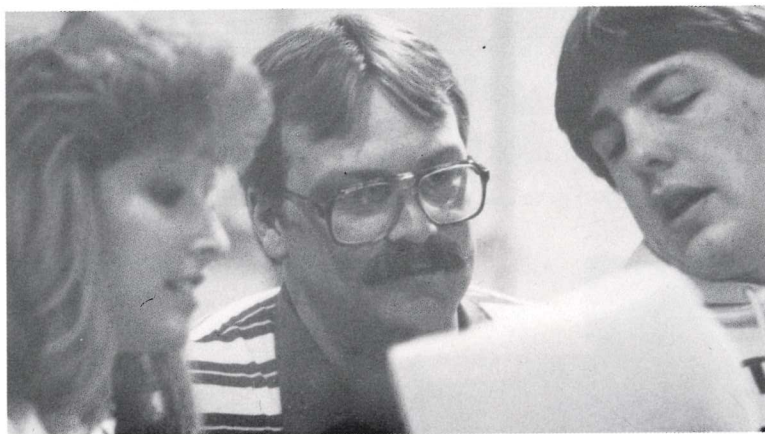

WRESTLING TEAM

"Wrestling is one sport that really enables you to be a witness for Jesus Christ," says wrestler John Busch, a freshman. "At many wrestling duels, there is a lot of waiting time before your number is called. That gives us lots of time to meet athletes from other teams and tell them about the Lord."

"We even witness while we're wrestling," John adds. "If an opponent pins me down, I'll often compliment him, saying 'good move,' and that's bound to have an influence."

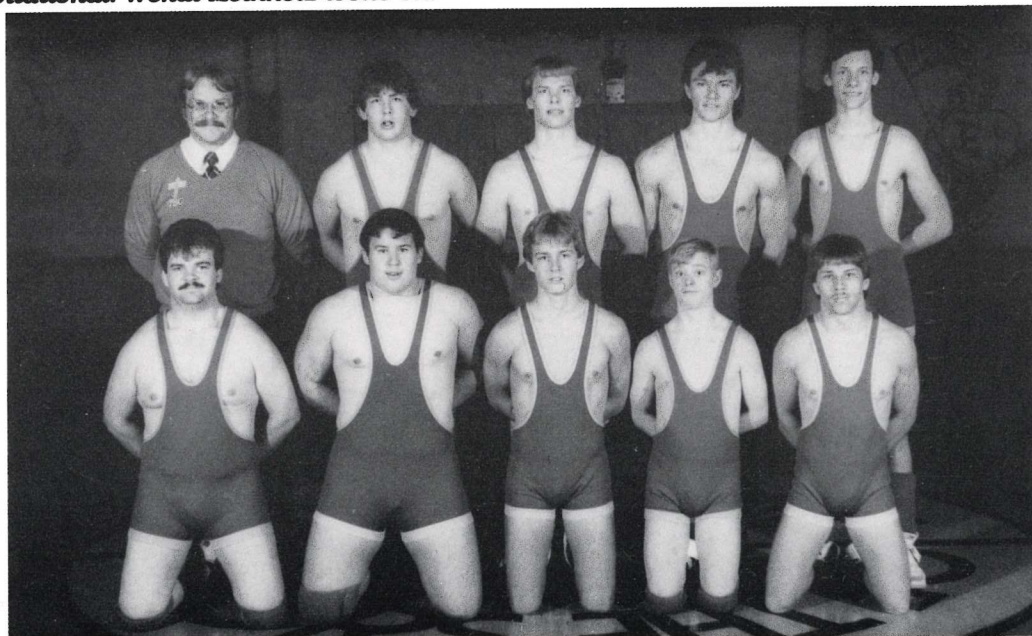

"I just enjoy planting seeds in the people I meet—players and coaches. And I pray that with God's grace, those seeds will grow."

MEN'S AND WOMEN'S CROSS COUNTRY TEAM

Carolyn and Marilyn Nelson (above) are cheered on by Trinity fans as they head for the finish line.

"Cross Country running is different from other sports," says coach Angie Thompson. "It takes a lot of self-discipline. Team members run eight to ten miles a day, so they have to be mentally tough, they have to make up their minds that they're just going to do it," Angie says.

"I saw real growth in the team," she adds. "We continually grew closer to the Lord. If we had problems, we'd go to God and talk openly. I enjoyed watching the runners excel—athletically and spiritually."

James Conklin (right) stretches his legs for an upcoming race as coach Angie Thompson provides moral support.

"The team prays before every meet," says coach Angie Thompson. "God takes the nervousness away and provides the encouragement we need."

TRINITY CHEERLEADERS

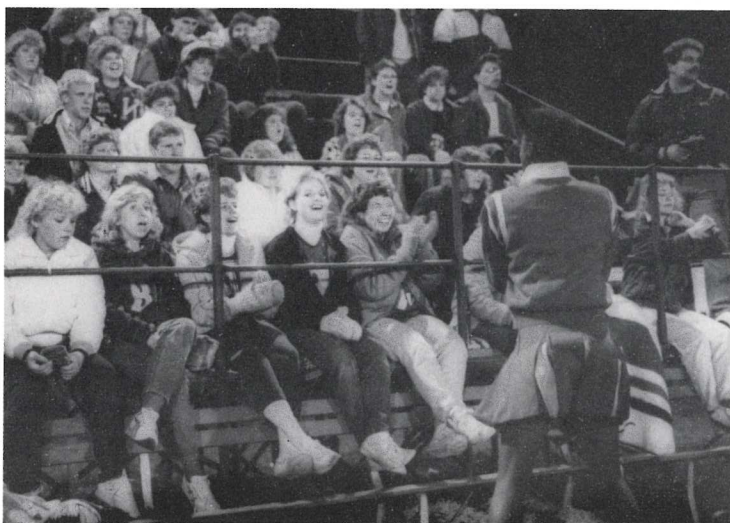

"I was a cheerleader at a public high school and every-time we'd do a cheer, it was like putting on a big performance," says Lisa Drury, a sophomore.

"But at Trinity," she adds, "cheerleading is a ministry. We recognize God as the giver of our talents. Our attitude is not selfish—we're more concerned about being a blessing to the different sport teams and the audience.

"We pray before every game and cheer in praise and worship to God. Through cheerleading, I've learned to give my all to God not just during a game, but every day of my life."

Cheerleader Amy Carter has her hands full leading this crowd of Trinity students to shouts of victory during a home football game.

FALL SPORTS BANQUET

The Fall Sports Banquet—Nov. 10, 1986—honored Trinity athletes in football, volleyball and cross country, along with the cheerleaders.

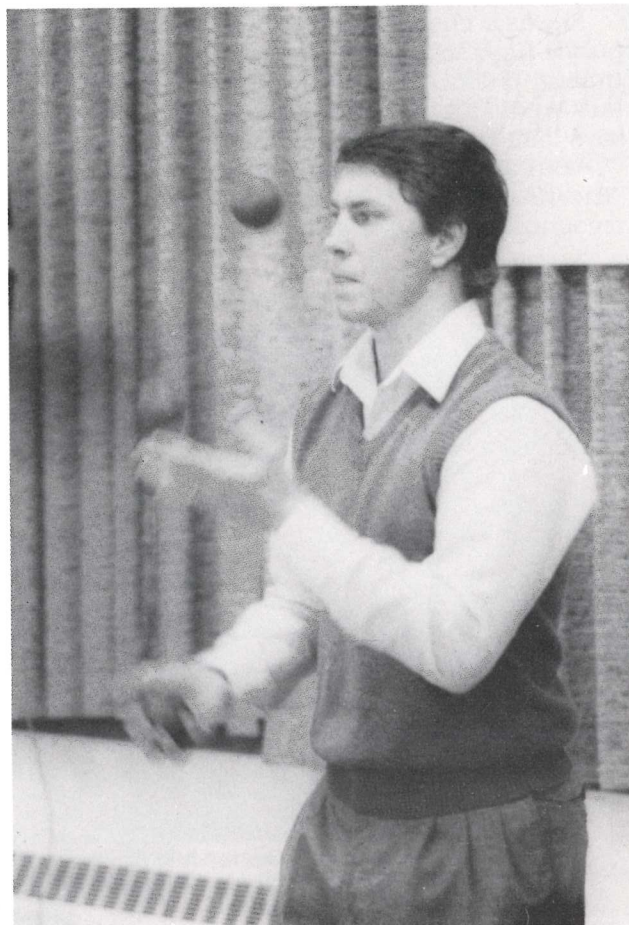

The theme of the banquet was taken from Colossians 3:23—"Whatever you do, work at it with all your heart, as working for the Lord, not for men."

Many students received awards for their outstanding athletic abilities and Christ-like sportsmanship.

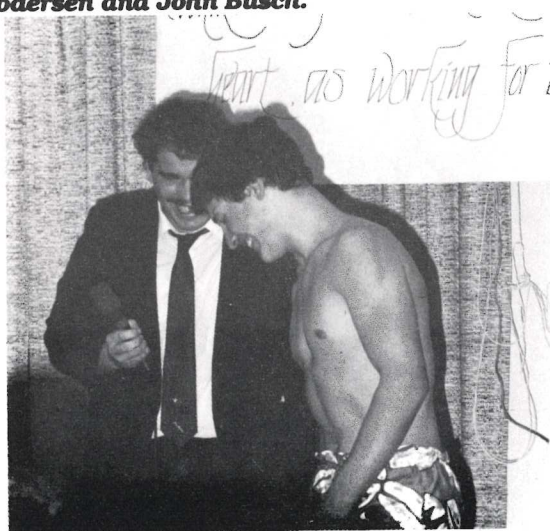

The highlight of the night were the humorous skits the athletes performed to entertain the crowd.

Football player Dan Owens has his hands full with this fast-moving fruit.

Harvey Macklin (right) couldn't "bare" to get through the night without making everyone laugh, including Todd Tabor.

Volleyball coach Jeff Nelson races to be the first one finished in this orange-eating contest. He later discovers he was the only one participating in this blinded competition.

Administration, Faculty and Staff

"Brethren, I count not myself to have apprehended; but this one thing I do, forgetting those things which are behind, and reaching forth unto those things which are before, I press toward the mark for the prize of the high calling of God in Christ Jesus."

The Board of Directors include: Sitting (l to r): Executive Vice-President Carl Malz, President Lowell Lundstrom, Rev. Marcus Bakke (chairman) and Rev. Lonnie Titus (secretary). Standing (l to r): Rev. Robert Maddox, Mr. William Gorder, Mr. Conrad Tvedt, Rev. Chuck Hardesty, Mr. Silas Liechty and Rev. Robert Hanson. Missing from photo: Mr. Jim Olson, Rev. David Nelson (vice-chairman) and Mr. Dale Svennes.

Trinity's Board of Directors meets twice a year to decide on all major issues facing the college. Trinity is blessed to have such dedicated, godly men, who serve unselfishly and with love.

Board member Silas Liechty (right) joins President Lundstrom in addressing pastors and laymen at last year's College Days banquet.

In the summer of 1986, board member Conrad Tvedt joined a group of students and faculty on a trip to England. There they visited churches, monuments and castles, and learned more about the English Reformation Movement.

ADMINISTRATIVE COMMITTEE

The Administrative Committee is the governing body on campus. Committee members meet every Tuesday to settle Trinity's day-to-day business. Their commitment and enthusiasm for the college is a blessing to the Trinity family.

During a recent chapel service, three administrators lead the students in prayer for the dedication of this new plexiglas podium, a gift from the 1986 senior class.

President Lundstrom and Academic Dean Dr. Dayton Kingsriter pose for the cameras during the Ellendale community's welcome back party for Trinity last fall.

GRADUATION—1987

April 24, 1987 was an exciting night for Trinity graduates as they received their diplomas.

The guest speaker was Dr. Roy Wead, former president of Trinity Bible College.

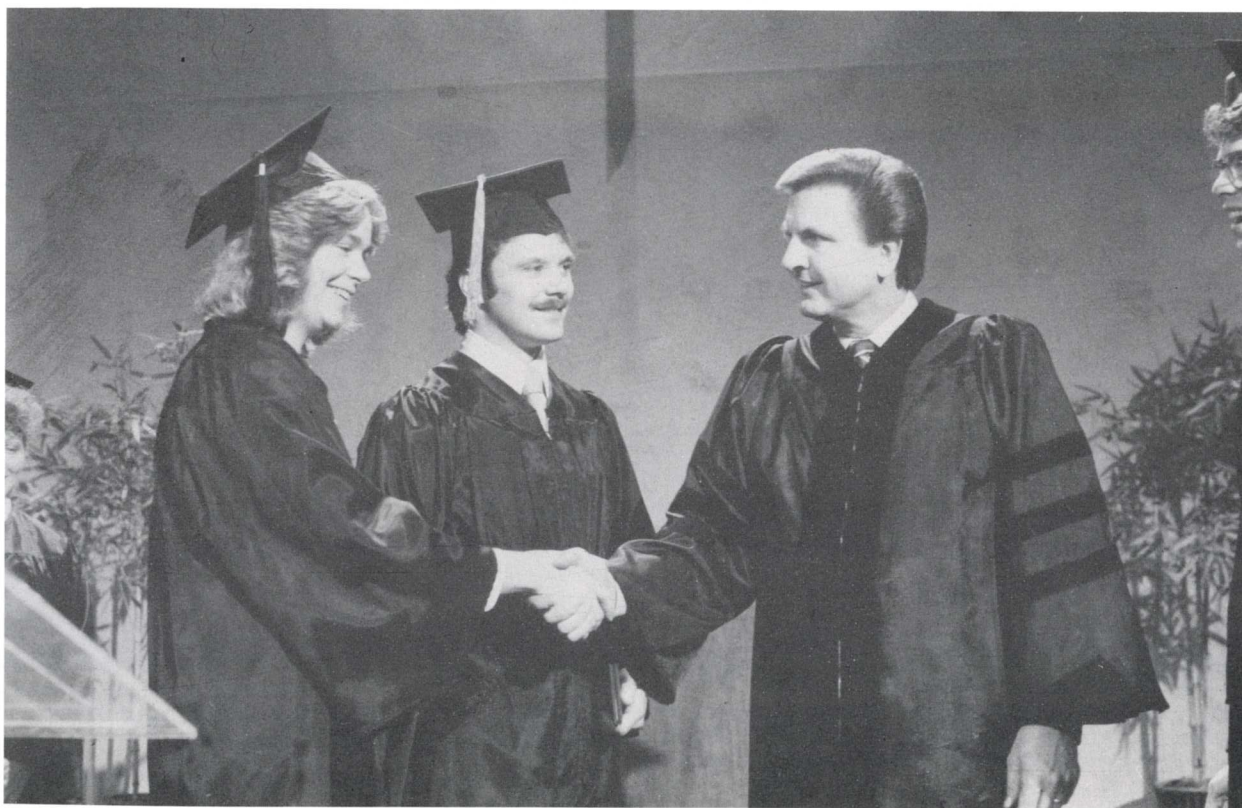

"It's tough to leave this place," says senior Shane Myers, a Biblical Studies major and music minor. "I really love Trinity and I'm committed to this college. I don't want to say goodbye.

President Lowell Lundstrom and Executive Vice-President Carl Malz address the graduates with a message of hope and victory for their new beginnings that lie ahead.

"Trinity has made me a music minister and worship leader," Shane adds, "and I'm ready to begin the church ministry God has called me to.

"The past year, I've seen and heard the best come through here—the best preachers, teachers and musicians. Now as I graduate, I feel like the apostle Paul when he said, 'I have fought a good fight, I have finished my course, I have kept the faith' (2 Tim. 4:7).

"Whatever lies ahead, I know God will be with me, and I will carry Trinity wherever I go!"

President Lundstrom congratulates Susan Owens and Shane Myers for a job well done.

CONGRATULATIONS GRADUATES!

"Trinity has prepared me for a career in business. I may get a job in a secular office setting, and I know the Lord will use me to minister and share Christ with my co-workers.

"At Trinity, the Lord has given me many things—a better prayer and devotional life, a desire to intercede in prayer for lost souls and a burden to go out and win souls for the Kingdom.

"Most of all, I'll remember Trinity as the place where I learned to trust God with everything—to surrender everything that comes between God and me. All is His and He is all. And when we put Jesus first, life's other priorities fall into place!"
